Dearest Honey Love: —

Just rec'd your darling letter of Thursday. Well, honey lock, just 2 weeks from to-day and you shall see me at the Memphis station. Will you be happy? Will you, dear? Lord, the time can't come too quickly for me.

Mom is considerably better. I do think that she will be allowed out of bed in a day or two, and after that it is only a matter of several days before she will be discharged. She slept of her own accord again last night. Slept for about 3½ hours. It was a terrible night, as they hung in a very sick patient and she screamed a good part of the night. Mom slept through all that business, so you see it is very encouraging. She feels much much better. I run up as often as I can. Now, that my time is growing short I go home to Mom as much as possible to get a little sewing done, and these last 2 nights I did not stay with Mom, as I have been, for the entire evening. But I think Mom is feeling so much better that time does not hang so heavily on her hands. I bring up a lot of magazines & the daily papers, & then she is well enough now to talk with the other patients in the ward. As to Rose she is managing wonderfully will read your letter to mam about the drug store proposition.

Am very happy dear, that you got your little job. I have since managed the rest of the house, so dear, things are look bright don't they? Am very happy too, dear, that the calomel helped you. Are you feeling better now? We hope so, & remember to take good care of yourself. Let me know dear, if there is anything you would like for me to bring down for you when I come.

Shall close now dear, with all my love, hugs & kisses.

Everlasingly
Frances.
